6. Types of accounts

6.1. Joint account (two or more holders)

6.1.1. Powers of each joint holder

Joint holders have the same rights and obligations regarding the management of the account.

Without the consent of the other joint holders, each holder can:

- › carry out all authorized transactions in the account, such as deposits and withdrawals
- › purchase, renew, and redeem any eligible investment
- › manage the account (for example, close the account)
- › make administrative decisions regarding the account (for example, changing the mailing address or agreeing to receive electronic communications).

If you require the consent of all joint holders for some account transactions, you must inform your branch when you open the account. You will not be able to do this later without closing the account.

6.1.2. Your liability

Each joint holder is jointly and severally (in Quebec, solidarily) liable for:

- › transactions in the account
- › changes to the account, and
- › reimbursement of all amounts due to the use of the account, regardless of who carried out the transaction.

You are responsible for informing the other joint holders if you make changes to the account.

You must notify us of any irregular transactions made in your account.

6.1.3. Withdrawal of a joint holder

The withdrawal of a joint holder will result in a joint account being closed.

6.1.4. Closure of the account

The joint account may be closed by only one of the joint holders, provided that all your investment products held in this account have matured.

An investment product has matured when:

- › it has matured without being automatically renewed
- › all the funds invested in the investment product have been redeemed when applicable, or
- › it is cancelled.

The joint holder will then be able to take possession of the funds in the account, unless more than one signature is required when the account is closed. We can also issue a bank draft payable to the order of all joint holders.

Some fees apply for the issuance of a bank draft. Please refer to the Fee Guide.

The joint holder who has closed the account is responsible for informing the other joint holders.

6.1.5. Death of a joint holder

In Quebec, in the event of death, the account is frozen until such time as a legal representative is appointed to settle the estate. In the meantime, we may allow withdrawals for emergency expenses and funeral costs if you hold only a bank holding account with the Bank.

In a province or territory other than Quebec, a joint account includes a right of ownership with survivorship. In the event of death, the surviving account holders maintain ownership of the funds in the account and continue to manage it. We have no obligation to the estate of a deceased account holder.

We are not responsible for losses, damages or fees, including legal fees resulting from litigation between the estate and others involved.

6.1.6. Documents and communications

All joint holders must notify us of their change of address. If a document is returned to us, subsequent documents will not be sent until the address is updated.

When you open the account, you must designate a holder to receive the account statement. Joint holders receive all other account-related documentation.

For more information on joint accounts, please refer to our brochure Power of attorney and joint account – Useful information available at your branch and online at nbc.ca.

6.2. In-trust accounts

A trust account (also called in-trust account) is an account that you hold for a specific purpose or for the benefit of another third party. You are the only person authorized to give us instructions concerning this account.

In the event of death, your legal representative (attorney, trustee, tutor, agent, temporary representative, liquidator of an estate) can exercise rights over the account, not the beneficiary of the account.

To benefit from the protection of deposit insurance coverage, you must provide us with the regulatory information regarding the beneficiary of the in-trust account annually upon request.

6.3. Account for a minor child

It is possible to open an account for a child between 0 and 6 years old. A parent or guardian must authorize the opening of this account. The parent or guardian is the account holder and owner of the funds.

From the age of 7, a child can open a bank holding account without the permission of the parent or guardian.

The child will be able to view his or her transactions via online banking.

6.4. Account managed by another person

6.4.1. Agent

You may appoint someone to act on your behalf via a power of attorney. The power of attorney is an agreement between you and the person representing you (the agent) and sets out this specific powers of the agent.

You are bound by the transactions and decisions made by your agent. The agent is personally liable for the transactions made on the account.

For additional information, please refer to our Power of Attorney and Joint Accounts – Useful information brochure available at your branch and online at nbc.ca.

6.4.2. Legal representative

When you are appointed as a legal representative (attorney, trustee, tutor, agent, temporary representative, liquidator of an estate), you represent and defend the interests of another person.

You must manage another person's account in their best interest. The funds in the account must be managed separately from your own funds, and you may not use these funds for your personal reasons.

We may refuse to accept a transaction made or instruction given by a legal representative.

In the event of death, the account is frozen until such time as a legal representative is appointed to settle the estate. In the meantime, we may allow withdrawals for emergency expenses and funeral costs if you hold only a bank holding account with the Bank.

7. General conditions

7.1. Authentication

The password you choose is intended to authenticate you. Your password is your electronic signature and confirms your instructions and transactions. You must notify us immediately if you believe that an unauthorized person is acting on your behalf.

We may rely on any electronic communication from you or that appears to come from you and which we deem to be authentic. We are not required to ask for additional personal information to authenticate you.

If you send instructions electronically, you accept the associated risks, such as failed delivery of the instructions. We are not liable for any loss that results from the execution of these instructions, except in the case of intentional or gross fault on our part.

7.2. Statement verification

You must verify the accuracy of the transactions recorded on your statement that you receive periodically. You must inform us immediately if you do not receive your statements.

If you see an irregular entry, you must report it to us within 30 days following the statement date. After that period, the Bank will not be liable for such entries, and all entries will be deemed to be accurate and final.

An irregular entry can be due to:

- › an error
- › an instruction that you have not authorized, or
- › fraud of which you are the victim.

Each time you access your account using our online services, we consider that you have reviewed the entries regarding your account. You must notify us immediately if you notice any irregular entry in order to limit your loss.

If your account is a joint account, please refer to section 6.1.

7.3.2. Electronically

If you have agreed to electronic communications, we may communicate with you via:

- › our online services,
- › our mobile app, and
- › digital channel (email and text messages).

You are deemed to have received the document as soon as it is sent through our systems.

You will be informed by email when a document is available on our online services, such as your monthly statement.

If your account is a joint account, please refer to section 6.1.

If the document is of public or regulatory interest, it will also be available at nbc.ca.
