Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The NBI Canadian All Cap Equity Fund's investment objective is to ensure long-term capital growth. The Fund invests directly, or through investments in securities of other mutual funds, in a portfolio comprised mainly of equity securities of Canadian companies.

The portfolio sub-advisor analyzes each company's potential for success in light of its current financial condition, its industry positioning, and economic and market conditions. The portfolio sub-advisor considers factors like growth potential, earning estimates, quality of management and current market value of the securities. It is expected that investments in foreign securities will not exceed approximately 10% of the Fund's assets.

Risks

The global investment risk of the Fund remains as described in the simplified prospectus or any amendments thereto and Fund Facts.

Results of Operations

For the twelve-month period ended December 31, 2023, the NBI Canadian All Cap Equity Fund's Investor Series units returned 9.64% compared to 11.75% for the Fund's benchmark, the S&P/TSX Composite Index (CAD). Unlike the benchmark, the Fund's performance is calculated after fees and expenses. Please see the Past Performance section for the returns of all of the Fund's series, which may vary mainly because of fees and expenses.

Certain series of the Fund, as applicable, may make distributions at a rate determined by the manager. This rate may change from time to time. If the aggregate amount of distributions in such series exceeds the portion of net income and net realized capital gains allocated to such series, the excess will constitute a return of capital. The manager does not believe that the return of capital distributions made by such series of the Fund have a meaningful impact on the Fund's ability to implement its investment strategy or to fulfill its investment objective.

The Fund's net asset value rose by 25.13% over the period, from $538.88 million as at December 31, 2022 to $674.28 million as at December 31, 2023.

The increase stemmed mainly from investments in the Fund by other NBI Funds and market fluctuations.

Canada's stock market produced a solid, double-digit gain in 2023. The S&P/TSX Composite Index chopped sideways in a broad range for much of the year in response to the shifting outlook for economic growth and interest rates. However, the backdrop improved considerably in the November-December time frame on mounting expectations that the Bank of Canada and other major central banks would stop tightening policy and perhaps even begin cutting interest rates in the year ahead. In addition, GDP growth remained on track to finish 2023 in positive territory, raising hopes that the economy could experience a "soft landing" despite the increase in rates over the past two years. Together, these favourable developments helped the index close near an 18-month high. The energy, financials, and mining sectors all provided solid absolute returns and contributed to the positive showing. Still, Canada trailed both the United States and its global developed-market peers due largely to its tilt toward energy stocks and other value-oriented sectors (including financials and materials) that lagged.

In this context, the Fund underperformed its benchmark.

Stock selection in the Industrials, Energy, and Consumer Discretionary sectors, as well as an underweight position in Utilities aided relative returns.

In industrials, participation in a more positive market during the second half of the period was broad, with cyclical performers TFI International Inc., Boyd Group Services Inc., and RB Global Inc. among the top contributors, with Boyd reporting first-quarter earnings that were ahead of consensus, reflecting strong demand and solid execution by management in what remains an uncertain operating environment. And after underperforming during most of 2022 due to concerns over its acquisition of IAA, share prices for RB Global, which operates online and in-person marketplaces to sell a variety of vehicles from large industrial equipment to automobiles, appreciated nearly 20% post the completion of the acquisition on expectations of cost saving synergies.

In energy, after drifting downward in a somewhat directionless market during the first half of the period, share prices recovered during the latter half as North American oil prices recovered from their early summer lows following news that US oil markets were witnessing sizeable inventory draws. While energy markets experienced softness during the second half of the period owing to the uncertainty as to whether OPEC+ members would continue to coordinate production cutbacks, exploration & production (E&P) stocks such as core holding Canadian Natural Resources Limited still managed to outperform the broad market over the course of the year following significant outperformance in the energy sector in 2021/22.

In the consumer discretionary sector, favouring companies with strong cash-flow generation proved prudent for stock selection as core holding Dollarama Inc. generated +20% positive returns as compared to the sector's overall return of 11%. Another contributor to relative returns was the Fund's underweight to the utilities sector where, while flat for the year, the sector was down as much as 12% during the first half of the period as rising yields, low organic growth and high payout ratios all pushed valuations lower.

Recent Developments

In terms of major transactions, the Fund initiated positions in BRP Inc., Open Text Corporation, Cogeco Communications Inc., and Definity Financial Corp.

Shares of BRP Inc. were purchased late in the period following a 15–20% correction in the stock's price. Shares of the holding company for Bombardier Recreational Products Inc., which engages in the design, development, manufacture, distribution, and marketing of power sports vehicles and marine products, were down meaningfully following weaker-than-expected third-quarter results and significantly reduced guidance for its next fiscal year. While free cash-flow is expected to be lower for 2023, strong and stable margins are expected to contribute toward much healthier levels in 2024, where the market may have overreacted with its pricing.

The Fund purchased Open Text Corporation following the announced divesture of its application & connectivity business to Rocket Software for $2.275 billion in order to deleverage and better focus on more strategic product areas—a transaction the sub-advisor believes makes sense, making the company a more attractive business to invest in.

Representing somewhat of a contrarian purchase, the Fund initiated a position in Cogeco Communications Inc. during the period after a healthy look through on the recovery in US cable stocks. Trading at a discount to many of its Canadian peers, Cogeco has recently managed to beat expectations in its subscriber and earnings areas while the stock continues to trade at a larger discount owing to heavier competition in US markets. The sub-advisor believed the risks were being exaggerated in the valuation, prompting its addition to the portfolio. The Fund also purchased Waste Connections Inc. during a correction which bottomed in early June, taking profits on its investment shortly before the period's end as valuations had become extended.

The Fund purchased shares of Definity during a period of weakness as markets priced in the negative impacts (loss claims) expected from wildfires in BC, Ontario and Quebec. Definity Financial Corp operates as a multi-channel property & casualty insurance company, offering both personal and commercial insurance products. While the company announced that it had increased its estimate of catastrophe losses to $120 million for the year, the sub-advisor believed the share price had become oversold given the company's ability to quickly reprice policy rates to adjust to changing market conditions.

Positions sold from the portfolio during the period included Magna International Inc., Brookfield Asset Management Ltd., CAE Inc., Barrick Gold Corporation, and First Quantum Minerals Ltd.

The Fund exited Magna on concerns related to the significant shift in the company's investment strategy. The company's newly outlined plan entails accelerated spending on megatrend areas and a corresponding uptick in upfront operating expenses and capital outlays with highly uncertain longer-term return on invested capital prospects. The level of spending is expected to materially curtail cash-flow generation in the near and medium-term driving an erosion in free cash yield while also widening the range of outcomes to the downside on our discounted cash-flow-based valuation, translating to a far less compelling risk/reward skew than previously contemplated.

Brookfield Asset Management Ltd was sold early in the period as valuations had become somewhat extended after strong returns in the first quarter, with proceeds placed into Bank of Montreal and elsewhere outside financials the portfolio was tilted toward more cyclical holdings. CAE Inc. was sold based on reduced visibility for free cashflow generation on the short-term and the lack of sustainable cash returns in recent years.

Benefitting from a gold price that reached an all-time high of US$2,100/oz, the Fund sold its holdings in Barrick Gold Corporation, redeploying profits into Franco Nevada Corporation after the latter's stock suffered a 14% decline in November given its streaming exposure to First Quantum and the closing of the latter's Cobre Panama mine following the supreme court's ruling to revoke law 406. For the sale of Barrick, an uptick in cost pressures, softer free cash-flows and more opaque outlook for copper prices prompted us to reallocate and increase our holdings in Franco Nevada. For Franco-Nevada, while the closure of First Quantum's Cobre Panama mine will have a material impact on its royalty stream, the discounting applied to Franco by the market seemed somewhat excessive, prompting an increase in weight inside the portfolio. Relatedly, given its indirect exposure provided through Franco Nevada, the Fund also sold its (direct) investment in First Quantum to mitigate exposure given the company's heavy leverage and growing concern that the Cobre Panama project may stay closed for an extended period of time.

In terms of positioning, the portfolio remains acutely focused on cashflows and valuations and the portfolio advisor used the strong start of the year to trim names that outperformed and redeploy into positions that lagged. Industrials remains the portfolio's top active weight with positions in the rails, commercial services, and trading companies which offer cyclical exposure with greater downside protection than the sectors of the market they service (energy, materials, others).

In energy, although the portfolio is underweight the sector as a whole, the sub-advisor is constructive on exploration and production (E&P) companies, with a small overweight in integrated companies. The E&P companies in the portfolio are of high quality and are focused on paying down debt, buying back stock and eventually returning money to shareholders in the form of dividends. The portfolio is underweight the sector primarily due to the underweight in pipeline companies. Another active weight is the portfolio underweight in utilities due to extended valuations, the higher interest rate environment and limited free cash-flows from the sector.

Tighter monetary conditions are showing up in the form of slowing economic data and lower inflation, but the labour market continues to be fairly tight and consumer spending has held in thus far. On the corporate fundamentals side, topline growth has moderated and earnings have declined as both inflationary and interest rate pressures impact below the line results. While the longer-term outlook remains constructive, the market has perhaps been somewhat overzealous in its discounting of a modest economic slowdown and rate cuts beginning this year. While the Bank of Canada and US Federal Reserve may indeed drop interest rates in 2024, the amount and its impact priced in by the market may have been somewhat exaggerated, with many stocks priced for perfection by the end of 2023.

While the TSX underperformed the S&P 500 by over 11% in 2023, the sharpest underperformance since 2018 and 2015, we believe Canada is well positioned for an extended period of normalization that we expect to unfold over the coming years. When compared to the US, valuation normalization favours Canada longer term and should provide some relative downside protection during periods of heightened volatility. However, we also believe the broadening out of equity performance should and will benefit Canadian equities heading into and in 2024 as the concentration of US Equity performance in the mega-cap stocks has been a key defining characteristic of global equity performance in 2023. Fundamentally, Canadian equity markets display strong and stable cash-flow generation. The near-record relative valuation discount advantage is among the primary reasons the sub-advisor believes the TSX is well positioned for outperformance versus the $\ensuremath{\mathsf{US}}$ and other global markets as valuations normalize. Additionally, Canada's strong corporate cash position implies capital deployment is likely to remain a key theme in 2024 as companies continue to judiciously allocate excess free cash-flow. As such, we continue to believe investors should maintain a strong allocation to Canadian equities and use periods of weakness as opportunities to add to core longer-term positions.

On May 1, 2023, the Fund's independent review committee (the "IRC") was increased to four members when Stéphanie Raymond-Bougie was appointed as an IRC member.

On or about May 3, 2023, the management fees for the Investor Series, Advisor Series, and Series T5 of the Fund were reduced to 1.85% and the management fees for the Series F and Series F5 were reduced to 0.70%.

- (1) This information is derived from the Fund's Annual Audited Financial Statements. The net assets per unit presented in the financial statements might differ from the net asset value calculated for fund pricing purposes. The differences are explained in the notes to the financial statements.
- (2) Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase or decrease from operations is based on the average number of units outstanding over the accounting period.
- $^{(3)}$ Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional units of the Fund, or both.
- (4) The net assets are calculated in accordance with IFRS.
- $^{(\!g\!)}$ This information is provided as at the last day of the accounting period shown.
- (6) Management expense ratio is based on total expenses including sales taxes for the accounting period indicated (excluding commission, other portfolio transaction costs and withholding taxes) and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net value during the accounting period. The management expense ratio includes, if necessary, the management expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106.
- (7) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the accounting period. The trading expense ratio includes, if necessary, the trading expenses from its underlying funds, as described in Article 15.2 of Regulation 81-106.
- (8) The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund portfolio's manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the accounting period. The higher a Fund's portfolio turnover rate in an accounting period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the accounting period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the accounting period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a Fund.
